MOOSE JAW FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

His Honor the Lieutenant Governor has granted the requisite authority for the formation of this Farmers' Institute, and has appointed Friday the 3rd day of April next, at 2 o'clock p. m., in Campbell's hall in the town of Moose Jaw, as the time and place for the first meeting of the members, and for the election of officers and the transaction of other business connected with its organization.

Emigration has again commenced and from present appearances Moose Jaw will get a good quota of settlers this spring, quite a number arrived this week and the second car of settlers effects arrived on Tuesday destined for Caron.

Report of the School Inspector.

The following extracts are taken from the report of the Inspector who visited the Moose Jaw Union School last week:—In department 1 (Miss Simpson) there is improvement in order and quietness. There is a large attendance here, quite too large for one teacher. In department 2 (Mr. Lang) the order is greatly improved. The pupils are under control and there is a spirit of work manifested. In the High School Department (Mr. Bowerman) the order is good. Progress is retarded by the presence of many whose attainments are much too low for the department. At the last visit of the Inspector in November, the following report of the High School Department was made:—Progress is most marked in this department, where the order is good and obtained with apparent ease. Rev. Dr. McLean called at the Union School on Friday last and left the following entry in the visitor's book:—The chief points of interest are as follows:—1st. In the High School, increasing interest of the scholars in their studies, and the excellent order. 2nd. In the Intermediate Department there has been shown more rapid advancement in study, greater enthusiasm manifested by the scholars, and more perfect order than I have ever witnessed at any previous time in visiting the school. 3rd. In the Junior Department good order, freedom, happiness in their work.

Signed,

JOHN McLEAN,
Member of Board of Education, and Member of Board of Examiners.

To the Editor of the Times.

DEAR SIR.—In your last report of the Council proceedings much space is given to a resolution passed unanimously by that honorable body. In the first place there was only five Councilors there when this resolution came up. It was stated to me by a Councilor who was there that the resolution was undoubtedly prepared before reaching the Council Chamber. The minutes claim that the Clerk made a statement and if this be so he must have been educated by the framers of this document to make the statement correspond to the resolution. There was no written facts, no discussion, it was simply moved and the combination was there to carry it through if it had to be done by the casting vote. A petition, or a copy of this resolution, was afterwards hawked around the street by the Post Master (who is a member of the Council) and the Mayor. The intention was (as stated by a member of the combination) to have the resolution endorsed by the citizens and used against me. The verdict rendered by those who were approached for their signatures is sufficient for me at present, or I am confident I can convince these two gentlemen they are subject to higher authorities, and their place of business is where they draw their pay. They probably know the measure of their influence now and must be convinced that whether it be used to injure O. B. Fysh, or to whitewash Mr. T. E. Birbeck, it is a failure. In conclusion Mr. Editor I will not intrude this issue further on your space. I will leave the citizens to draw their own conclusion.

Yours Truly,

O. B. Fysh.

Three Thousand Citizens of New Orleans Take the Law in Hand

AND AVENGE THE FOUL MURDER OF CHIEF OF POLICE HENNESSY.

They Arm go to Prison and Shoot Six Italians Like Dogs.

Terrible Excitement in New Orleans Over The Sensation.

NEW ORLEANS, March 14.—The scenes at and about the Clay statue this morning brought to mind very forcibly and vividly the popular and ominous uprising in that September nearly sixteen years ago. Ten o'clock had not yet struck when a vast multitude was already congregated on Canal street almost filling up the large space from curb to curb on each side of the boulevard. Just on the strike of ten a shout went up from the people stationed at St. Charles street, and a number of gentlemen, among whom were W. S. Parkerson, John O. Wickliffe and others who signed the call, came marching along and began walking round and round the railing of the Clay monument. "Fall in! fall in!" was the cry, and amidst deafening shouts several of the crowd formed a procession which went round the base of the monument. The view from the altitude was imposing. Not a bad word had yet escaped the lips of the gentlemen who had mounted the steps. They stood erect and motionless, surveying the surging multitude, from whose ranks there gleamed faces of resolve and determination. There were fully three thousand persons within earshot and more could be seen struggling, pushing and running here and there on neutral ground. The street cars were unable to pass through, the carriages, carts, wagons, cabs and vehicles of all descriptions which were halted. The people were about to exercise their mighty prerogative of sovereignty and were in no mood to get out of the way. Theirs was a fixed purpose to hear what they expected would be said and to do what the outraged community felt should be done.

MR. PARKERSON

spoke first. He said that once before he had appeared before the people in a grand mass meeting assembled to discuss matters vital to the interests of the community and again he faced the people of New Orleans to denounce the most infamous act which was consequent upon the most revolting crime in the criminal annals of any community. That act was the finding of the jury in the murder trial yesterday and that trial was, as everybody knew, the foul assassination of the chief of police. "I desire neither fame nor name nor glory," said Mr. Parkerson, "I am a plain American citizen, and as such, and as a good citizen I am here." The crowd was yelling itself hoarse with fury ungovernable. It was evident throughout the immense assemblage, which by that time numbered eighty thousand people was in desperate earnest. "Shall you protect yourself?" Yes, self-preservation is the first law of nature! This is the time for action, not talk.

"LET'S GO! LET'S GO!"

"Come on, Wycliffe! Come on, Parkerson! we are ready." "Get your guns and meet us in Congo Square immediately." Loud cheers were given as Mr. Parkerson and other gentlemen moved down the steps. Then an ominous silence reigned and the steady tramp, tramp, tramp of men falling in line and marching along was heard, and the crowd followed the leaders on along Canal street, to the ramparts. They marched down to the

PARISH PRISON

which was reached at 10.30 o'clock. The mob congregated in the visiting room and a shout went up given the victims.

FOR THE KEY

The moment they were pointed out they were fired on and killed like dogs by the infuriated citizens. Not content with the killing, many of the crowd jumped on the bodies when the life blood was oozing out, and stamped the features beyond recognition.

The following prisoners that were on trial yesterday were all killed:

MANUEL POLITZ.
PETRO MONASTORIO.
ANTONIO SCOFFEDIO.
JOSEPH P. MARCHESI.
ANTONI BAGNETT.

THE SEQUEL.

The reason for the terrible action of the crowd was the acquittal of the jury yesterday of certain of the Italian prisoners who were indicted for the coldblooded murder last fall of Chief Hennessy of the police force. The crime was pretty clearly traced to the Mafia, a society of Italians who had resolved to remove the chief.

ADDITIONAL PARTICULARS.

NEW ORLEANS, March 16.—New Orleans struck the Mafia a death blow Saturday. It rose in its might almost at midday and wreaked terrible vengeance upon the Sicilian assassins who relentlessly slew David C. Hennessy, and though there are eleven men dead last night who were happy Saturday over their victory in the greatest criminal trial the city ever witnessed, the work of blood was accomplished without unnecessary disorder, without rioting, without pillaging, and without infliction of suffering upon any innocent man save one, and he was only slightly hurt. It was not an unruly midnight mob. It was simply a sullen, determined body of citizens who took into their own hands what justice had ignominiously failed to do.

The chief of police was slain on Oct. 15th, and that very night evidence began to accumulate, showing that his death had been deliberately planned by a secret tribunal and carried out boldly and successfully by tools of the conspirators. The trial lasted twenty-five days, and though evidence seemed conclusive, the jury, currently charged with having been tampered with, failed to convict. When the main crowd from Canal street reached the prison, which is many squares from Canal street, the building was surrounded on all sides. The

TURNKEY WAS OVERPOWERED

and the keys taken from him. Peering through the bars of the condemned cell was a terror-stricken face which someone mistook for Scoffedio. A volley was fired at the man and he dropped, but one of the shots struck him and it was subsequently known that he was not one of the assassins. Minutes of the jail were ready to direct the way to where the Italians were. "Go to the female department," someone yelled, and there the men ran. The leader called for some one who knew the right men, and a volunteer responded and the door was thrown open. When the pursued and the pursuers reached the stonyard the former darted toward the Orleans side of the gallery and crouched down beside the cells. Their faces were blanched, and being unarmed, they were

ABSOLUTELY DEFENCELESS.

In fear and trembling they screamed for mercy. But the avengers were merciless. Bang, bang, bang, bang, out the reports of murderous weapons and a deadly rain of bullets were poured into the crouching figures. Gerachi, the closest man was struck in the back of the head and body pitched forward, and lay immovable on the stone pavement. Romero fell to his knees with his face in his hands and in that position was shot to death. Monastorio and James Caruso fell together under the fire of half a dozen guns. The executioners did work well and beneath a continuous fire, Cometex and Trahinia, two of the men who had not been tried, but who were charged jointly with the other accused, fell together. Their bodies were riddled with bullets. When the group of assassins were discovered in the gallery, Machray, Scoffedio and the old man Marchesi separated from the other six and ran upstairs. Thither half a dozen men followed, and as the terror-stricken assassins ran they were slain. Joe Macheca, charged with being an arch-conspirator, was summarily dealt with. He had his back turned when a bullet struck him behind the ear and death was instantaneous. No blood flowed from the wound when the body was picked up, so as to hide the wound. Scoffedio, one of the most villainous of the assassins, dropped like a log when a bullet hit him in the eye. Old man Marchesi was the only man not killed outright. He was struck on top of the head while he stood beside Macheca, and though mortally wounded, lingered all the evening. Pollideo, a crazy man, was locked up in a cell upstairs. Doors were flung open, and one of the avengers shot him through the body. He was not killed outright, and was dragged down the stairs and was brought through the doorway by which the crowd entered. Half carried, half dragged, he was taken to a corner, a rope tied around his neck and the people pulled him up to the cross-bars. A score of men hours the body left dangling in the air. Bagnetto was caught in the first rush up stairs and the first volley of bullets pierced his brain. He was pulled out through the main entrance to the prison and from the limb of a tree the body was suspended although life was already gone.

POURED A VOLLEY

THE VICTIMS.

Coroner Lemonnier viewed the bodies of these lying in the yard. Rocco Geracci was first viewed, but one wound was found; this was in the chest and caused hemorrhage which resulted in death. Next came Peter Monastorio. He was found to have a gunshot wound in the back of the head and a bruise on the neck, anteriorly. Charles Terahia was found to have received ten gunshot wounds in the chest, anteriorly, one gunshot wound on the left side of the face, and gunshot wounds on the back of the left shoulder and in the back. Jim Caruso had numerous gunshot wounds on the anterior portion of the body, one wound in the face, one in the neck, nine in the chest, twelve in the abdomen, five in the right thigh, four in the left thigh. Lorenzo Comitex had a gunshot in the chest, anteriorly one in the top of the head, four in the right side of the body, and a bruise by a gunshot wound on the left side of the back. Frank Romero had a gunshot wound on the head above the forehead. All the shot lodged in the head, and the skull inside is completely shattered. The bodies inside the prison were then examined. Antonio Scoffedio had a gunshot wound in the brain. Joseph O'Macheca had not a single bullet wound in him. His face was swollen and his flesh had a bluish tint. He had evidently been clubbed to death with the butt end of pistols and rifles. Marchesi was found to be still alive. He was just as good as dead, though, as evidenced by a hole as large as a silver quarter. Marchesi died this morning. The coroner's jury presented a finding which merely said that the persons who shot the prisoners were unknown. Matranga, Snizeri, Vatalie, the boy Marchesi, Patreno, John Carus, Pietzo and Incardina are the eight men who escaped punishment.

BLAINE SPEAKS PLAINLY.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Baron Grava the Italian Minister, yesterday formally brought to the attention of the president, the slaughter of the Sicilian prisoners in the parish jail at New Orleans Saturday. As a result, Secretary Blaine sent the following despatch to Governor Nicholis this morning: "It has been represented to the President by the minister of Italy accredited to this government that among the victims of the deplorable massacre which took place in the city of New Orleans yesterday, were three or more subjects of the King of Italy. Our treaty with that friendly government (which, under our constitution is the supreme law of the land) guarantees to the Italian subjects domiciled in the United States, the constant protection and security for their persons and property, making them amenable on the same basis as our own citizens to the laws of the United States and of the several states in their due and orderly administration.

The President deeply regrets that the citizens of New Orleans should have so despaired of the purity and adequacy of their own judicial tribunals as to transfer to a passionate mob a question that should have been adjusted dispassionately and by the settled rules of law. The government of the United States must give to the subjects of a friendly power that security which it demands for our citizens when temporarily under a foreign jurisdiction.

It is the hope of the President that you will co-operate with him in maintaining the obligation of the United States towards the Italian subjects who may be within the perils of the present excitement, that further bloodshed and violence may be prevented and that all offenders against the law may be promptly brought to justice."

NEW YORK ITALIANS ANGRY.

NEW YORK, March 15.—L'Eco D'Italia, one of the representative Italian newspapers in this city, issued an extra edition at 11 o'clock yesterday. The story of the wholesale killing was told briefly, and was followed with the following editorial and appeal:

"Without words, we want satisfaction in full and complete. If the minister at Washington has not at this hour made his word good, 1,000,000 of Italians residing in the United States will know how to do it. If the massacre that we have witnessed in this free republic is allowed to go unpunished, we will denounce it as assassination. Our word is quickly pledged. We never repent. Vendetta." The newspaper invites to a mass meeting whoever has a heart that beats in his bosom. "In this moment of persecution, it adds, 'through malignity and wrath and hate we ought to remember that we are all Italians, and as such we invite El Progresso and Il Colombo to unite with us at the grand mass meeting. Colleagues be quick to join hands, as we are ready and always with you. In this supreme hour of our vindication let us be united in the name of God. Death to the assassins. Death to those that allowed such a butchery."
